The Supreme Court Assailed.

It can hardly be gratifying to any grave Doctor of Divinity to see himself quoted as high authority for a want of respect and reverence for the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States; but since the memorable letter of Dr. Breckinridge, there has broken out a fresh war upon this Court, and the New York Tribune, ever foremost in any revolutionary movements, whether in politics or religion, comes to the aid of the epistolary doctor of Calvinistic theology, and with all the venom characteristic of that incendiary sheet, assails this Court, and especially its Chief Justice and the other Justices concurring in the Dred Scott decision. "Politics makes strange bed-fellows," is a bon mot of some wise observer; but we doubt if in all the tergiversations of politics, such a strange companionship can be found, as in these chief assailants of that last and only abiding place of whatever reverence remains to the American people. One would think they were "wide as the poles asunder," and could meet on no common ground, whether in religion, morals, philosophy, or politics; yet they have embraced, and this espousal has taken place, where, if we mistake not, it will be most damaging to the reputation of the D. D., if he does not beat a hasty retreat. The accession of such a combatant to the ranks of Black Republicanism has not been witnessed before, and our only hope of preserving him from permanent defection, is the chance that Seward and Sumner may remember the terrible scathing he gave them a few years ago, and refuse the co-operation of one whom they cannot but regard as their superior, and who does give the most terrible blows to those who gainsay him. Unfortunately we have mislaid those letters, and we hope some more careful person, who has preserved them, will forward us a copy, that we may re-publish them; and we promise the sender that it shall be no fault of ours if those gentlemen do not receive a new edition, in clear, legible type. This may defeat the thing, and it is our only hope; for we might as well expect to see the Mississippi flow up stream, as to see this "objective" Doctor recant any of his opinions. If we mistake not, there was an early acquaintance, a school-fellowship between the Senator from New York and the Danville Professor: and this youthful acquaintance may be renewed, and finally lead to some political co-operation; at any rate, appearances are most ominous, and our only hope, save in Providence, is in Seward's good memory and our own efforts to revive the sensations he experienced under the Doctor's castigation.

The precedent set in attacking the Supreme Court is becoming most alarmingly contagious, for it has already spread from the comparatively mild and respectful attack of Dr. Breckinridge, to the vituperative onslaught of the Tribune, till the attorney in the Lemon slave case at Albany, the other day, had the audacity to decry its decisions in the most shameful manner. This thing threatens to become a contagion; and if it has so soon affected the bar, it cannot be long till we have the decisions of this tribunal denied as authority in every Justice's court. It is to be expected "that offences will come, but woe unto him by whom they come." We do not expect the Scripture to have the least weight with Seward, Greely, or Evarts; but we do have some hope of seeing it regarded by one whose profession it is to expound the Scriptures.

The Tribune scorns the idea of paying any respect to the Supreme Court, but is only carrying Dr. Breckinridge's idea of "giving a sanctity to its decisions, now contemplated," a little further, but is the legitimate conclusion from the great Doctor's pronunciamento, and is only a sermon founded upon a text from that letter. But Evarts, the counsel for the Lemon negroes, goes so far as to hope that Chief Justice Taney may soon die and give place to some Republican appointee, who will expound the Constitution to suit these revolutionists, who will next attack slavery in the States by act of Congress, and a packed court will sustain them. These attorneys are pestilent in their best estate, and pay but little reverence to God, man, or the Devil, and give more trouble to our law-makers in framing statutes so as to hold them, than all the jail birds in the land. They are only held in moderate restraint by being opposed by the Clergy and all the virtuous sentiment of the country; but when they can preach from texts furnished by Professors of our theological schools, they are emboldened beyond measure, and the only remedy is for the people to pass laws suppressing the whole tribe. There never was a treasonable device hatched in the country, from Aaron Burr to Seward, that has not had its derivation from a lawyer's office; and sad will be the day for this country, when revolutionary sentiments shall proceed from the far more respectable source of Divinity Colleges.

This destruction of all reverence for the Supreme Court, and final overthrow of the Court itself, is to be a main feature in the Black Republican programme for the coming Presidential election, and now is the time for all conservative men to come to the aid of this sanctuary of the Constitution, and defend it from all profanity, whether such proceeds from the Church, the Bar, the Senate, or the Press.

School for Idiots.

The Frankfort correspondent of the Louisville Journal takes us to task for what he fancies to be an imputation and "affront to the integrity and kindness of heart of the entire Commonwealth," and then goes on to heap the severest "contempt" upon the political representations of the Commonwealth. This is like the kiss of Judas, for whether it is worse to say, there may be selected some wanting in that kindliness of heart necessary to secure success for this school, or to charge that the people have sent up here "ravening wolves" "howling night and day for spoils" as their chosen representatives? We disclaim any imputation on the people of the State of Kentucky, and will tell this correspondent that all our public offices are filled with gentlemen that will compare favorably with any the State has ever had; and that the acts of this Legislature will prove that there is more enlightened and judicious legislation than has ever been had in Kentucky before, and that the people will recognize it as such.

We propose, after the adjournment of the Legislature, to give a comparative review of the labors of the present body, and those under the ancient regime.

THE GAINES' CASE.—We had occasion to allude to this case some time ago in an article on registration, and we see that the Supreme Court of the United States has just decided in favor of legitimacy of Mrs. Gaines, and we suppose she will be put in possession of her father's large estate without further litigation.

☞The citizens of Georgetown, Scott county, and vicinity, are discussing the question building a railroad from that place to intersect the Lexington and Frankfort Road at Payne's Depot. Application will be made to the Legislature at an early day for a charter; and if one is granted, the proposition will be submitted to a vote of the people of the county for ratification and support.

ARREST OF A KIDNAPPER.—Yesterday a man said to hail from Covington, or more lately Cincinnati, who gives his name as Geo. W. Brown was arrested on the charge of kidnapping a free negro, and offering him for sale in this city as a slave. He, very unfortunately for the success his financial operation, offered to sell said negro to Jerome Inspector Joe Jeans. Joe looked like a steady going, well to do farmer, or citizen, and when the trade was proposed he very wisely took the bait, and gave Mr. Brown $10 to show he was in earnest. On questioning him as to his right to the property, he said he would show that from Covington, and give a good bill of sale.

Mr. Jeans to bind the bargain more closely called in officer Harvey Seaton as a witness, and then invited Brown round to the bank, where he would draw the money to pay for the nigger.—To this the other readily consented, and Joe, the sly fox, took Mr. Brown to Castle Thomas, where he was very politely invited in, and given lodgings gratis, thinking all the while that he was going to the bank. He was taken in, and completely "done brown."—Lou. Cour.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the State Agricultural Society, will be held at Frankfort, on the 23d day of February, 1860, for the purpose, among other business, of receiving from the several local Societies in the State, propositions for holding with them the Fifth Annual Kentucky State Fair. Parties making propositions will please accompany them by statements of the extent of their grounds, the size and character of their buildings, fences, &c., and the nature of the public thoroughfares by which they are reached.

Harper's Ferry Affair.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., Feb. 2.

The town is thronged to-day to witness the proceedings of the trial of Stephens, one of the Harper's Ferry conspirators. At 11 o'clock the court opened, Judge John Kinney, of Rockingham, presiding, Judge Parker being engaged in holding the regular town court in Hampshire county. The grand jury, of which R. V. Sperley is foreman, was sworn. The Judge delivered his charge, and in referring to the Harper's Ferry invasion, said: "It is known to you, and is now a part of the history of the country, that on the night of the 16th of October last, a band of traitors, murderers, and miscreants stealthily made a descent on the soil of Virginia, in the county of Jefferson, and wantonly murdered several of our citizens and people, with a design to incite our slaves to revolt and to subvert our government Some of these desperadoes, and others, the dupes of designing cowards, were captured, tried, and punished according to their deserts.

"But there are some engaged, or supposed to have been engaged in this foray, who have not yet been apprehended, and others who are believed to have been actually engaged in this tragedy, but who are not yet known to the public. It will be your duty, and I believe your pleasure also, to inquire who was guilty of polluting our soil and attempting to dishonor the sovereignty of Virginia. I deem it unnecessary for me to recommend you to conduct your inquiries with that coolness, justice, and good sense which has distinguished your predecessors in their inquisition, and which has met the approbation of the patriotic and good citizens of our common country; so conduct your inquiries that the bright escutcheon of our beloved State shall not be dimmed by passion or groundless suspicion, and also let them be conducted without fear, favor, or affection, as you may elicit the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

The jury then retired to their room, and the witnesses in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Aaron D. Stephens, were sent up. Before the jury retired, Mr. Harding, District Attorney, made an address to them.

After an absence of an hour they returned with a bill against Stephens, charging him with murder and treason, and conspiring with slaves to create a rebellion.

The witnesses in the case of the Commonwealth vs Hazlett were then sent up, and an indictment of the same character was shortly afterwards returned against him.

The work of impannelling the jury in the case of Stephens was postponed until to-morrow, in order to allow the counsel time to examine the indictments against him.

Stephens and Hazlett will both be defended by Mr. Sennott. The Commonwealth is represented by Andrew Hunter.

It is deemed unnecessary, at present, to increase to any extent, the military force now here; the only addition that has been made is a company of twenty cavalry from Shepardstown.

No fear is entertained of an attempt to rescue the prisoners.

AFTERNOON SESSION.—The Court opened at one o'clock this afternoon. Judge John Kinney presiding.

Mr. Stephens was brought in by the jailer and his guard, in seeming perfect health. Mr. Sennott suggested to the Commonwealth the propriety of announcing whether it would elect to try on one or all the counts, or whether they relied on one trial for conviction. He also read a letter from President Buchanan in regard to inquiries in regard to the trial. He thought that the Commonwealth had not acted in good faith to the prisoners in removing the case to the Federal Court, and then proceeding from that determination, and thought the indictment should be quashed. He appealed to the mercy of the Court, for it certainly would be an act of mercy to send the prisoners to Staunton for trial.

Mr. Harding, for the Commonwealth, had not made a proposition for removal, and strongly protested against that throughout the trial. He was at present willing to turn them all over to the Federal authority, but after the State decided to try him he was opposed to any change of trial He did not consider Gov. Wise had authority to make a charge.

Mr. Hunter denounced as utterly untrue, the assertion of Mr Sennott, that Stephens was forced to plead at the late term of the Court.

Mr. Sennott disclaimed any intention to reflect on any one, and spoke eloquently of the State of Virginia, hoping his tongue might wither before he would speak in any but terms of praise of the State. When the offer was made to send Stephens to Staunton, he thought he had better accept the offer, for it was a matter of life and death, and he might share the fate of Brown.

Judge Kinney, after stating his understanding of the motion of Mr. Sennott, said there was nothing to show that Virginia ever made a legal surrender of the prisoner. He would pay no attention to political influence, and the prisoner would have as fair a trial as any Southern man could have. He could only look on it as an appeal of the counsel for the defense to transfer the case, and I would have to reject the appeal.

Mr. Harding moved a nolle prosequi on the old indictments, as the prisoners would have to be tried on the indictment brought in yesterday.

Mr. Sennott requested the State to select one count in the indictment, in order to render the case less complicated.

Mr Hunter replied, quoting a number of authorities to show the legality of the course taken, and declining to recede from any count in the indictment—deeming them all necessary.

COL. W. D. LAYNOE.—Among the working men in the Legislature from the purchase, where all indeed are working men, may be noted without invidious distinction, the member from Hickman and Fulton, who is a member of the committee on Enrollments. This is a good position, and one of great importance and labor; for after a bill is passed, before it can become a law, it has to be re-written in a plain, legible hand, and compared with the original. It is then presented to the Governor for his signature; and when, as in the present session, very many local acts are passed, no one not conversant with legislation can conceive the labor, and at the same time the great benefit, conferred by the prompt action of this committee. It is in the faithful and laborious discharge of these duties, that we understand Mr. Laynoe has made himself one of the most useful, and at that same time one of the most popular members of the session.

He is a gentleman of fine attainments, of quick and vigorous intellect, of decided and unswerving political principles, and is fair to win a reputation and position in the district commensurate with his talents and industry as a legislator and his genial qualities as a gentleman. He is an ardent State Rights man, a strict constitutionist of the old Democratic school, with all the generous and bounding impulses of Young America. He is a young Democrat of that stamp which the Democracy of "Boyd's district" has always delighted to honor, and it is but justice to him and that "undonitable Democracy," that we should say this much of him, and thus introduce him to those, in his beginning, who are to be the watchful arbiters of his political future.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 2.—Ex-Gov. Chase was elected United States Senator on the first ballot. The vote stood—Chase 75, Pugh 51, Corwin 5.

The Republicans fired 117 guns this afternoon in honor of the election of Pennington to the Speakership.

AN INJURED PATRIOT.—Mr. Botts, of Virginia, is an ill used man. He wrote a letter upon the present posture of political affairs, and invited twenty leading Virginian politicians to hear it read. They came to his house and listened to the reading of the document, and when its author had finished, were so enthusiastic that they were obliged to request him to retire into another room in order that they might give full vent to their eulogies. The author thus distinguished has since published his paper, and now finds to his amazement nearly all those who then approved so warmly his views, solemnly repudiating his paper and himself under their sign manual. Such is popularity, such the favor of the fickle multitude. N. Y. Times.

☞Mr. Dulaney has been appointed postmaster at Bowling-Green in place of Major Donaldson, removed.

XXXVIth CONGRESS—First Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.

SENATE—Mr. Gwin gave notice that on Monday he would move to go on with the calendar, the first bill upon which was for the construction of a Pacific Railroad, and he desired that to be taken up.

Mr. Sumner introduced a resolution requesting the committee on Commerce to inquire into the expediency of repealing the hospital tax on seamen, and abolishing the present system of marine hospitals. Adopted.

Mr Wigfall gave notice of a bill for a railroad and telegraph between the Atlantic States and California.

Mr. Lane offered a resolution instructing committee on Naval Affairs to inquire into the expediency of establishing a naval station at Puget's Sound. Adopted.

Mr. Davis introduced a series of resolutions relating to obligations imposed on the States by the constitution, to protect the rights of the people in the territories, &c.

Mr. Davis said he referred to these resolutions for the purpose of having a vote taken on them separately. He would be glad if they could be adopted without debate and with unanimity.—Ordered to be printed and made the special order for Wednesday next, at 1 P. M.

Mr. Wilson introduced a bill appropriating 1,000,000 acres of the public lands for the benefit of the free schools of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Foster introduced a resolution of inquiry whether the appropriation for the new post office in New York is now in force, and whether further legislation is necessary. Adopted.

Mr. Brown's resolutions were taken up.

Mr Fitch discussed the Territorial question.—He said that the new doctrine of popular sovereignty was a departure from the views of the framers of the Government. He defended the course of the Democratic Senators in displacing Mr. Douglas from the chairmanship of the committee on Territories. His views as to the power of the people in the Territories, declared from Freeport to New Orleans, were at variance with the opinions of the great majority of his party. The action of the Senate was not from disrespect to the Senator from Illinois, but because he did not respect their principles. He defended the Northern Democracy from the charge of unsoundness preferred by Mr. Iverson, and denounced the Republicans as foes to the Constitution. He said that when they to keep an oath to support the Constitution, they must do so with a reservation. Northern Democrats surprised themselves in defense of Southern institutions. He referred to Dickinson, Cass, Dodge, Jones, and others, who were driven out because they defended the South against the prejudices of their own people. The Republicans now endeavored to raise a storm which would sweep Northern Democrats out of existence. He wished to bend bow to stand on conjoint ground. He then referred to Mr. Brown's resolutions. Every citizen's right to carry property into the Territories he conceded, and was opposed to the nomination of Mr. Douglas at Charleston, on account of the injustice and unconstitutionality of his territorial doctrine. If the South should nominate him, the North would regard it as an admission that his views were acceptable to it, thus forfeiting the respect of enemies and the sympathy of friends. The doctrine of Squatter Sovereignty makes every Territory non-slaveholding, whether situated North or South. He could not agree with the Senators from Mississippi and Louisiana, that it was the duty of Congress, even if it had the power, to pass laws for the protection of one species of property in the Territories. That would cause Congress to degenerate into a mere Territorial Legislature. He held that slavery was protected in the Territories by the common law. The Territories could not exercise power belonging to a State. The man who would not entertain his action to the Constitution had in his hands the raw material of a John Brown, and could only find gratification on the other side of the Chamber. He had yet to learn that the Democratic party belonged to one man, from whom it received its interpretation of what this or what that law meant. He did not believe the party was yet prepared to go on its bended knees to this man and ask him on what terms he would accept the nomination. When he put on his hat he did not cover the entire brains of the party, nor its entire heart when he buttoned up his waistcoat.

Mr. Fitch then examined the Dred Scott decision, contending that it sustained the views he had advanced. He also claimed that they were supported by the Cincinnati platform. He thought there were points, however, on which Democrats differ without feeling. They were judicial, not legislative questions.

Mr. Douglas said it was not necessary at this time to go into any controversy with the gentleman from Indiana. He might have used these arguments with more propriety in his own State, before the meeting of the late Democratic convention.

Mr. Fitch replied that the action of that convention might add to the Senator's vote at Charleston, but according to rules governing former conventions, it did not give him votes enough to secure his nomination. Did he then expect to sell or transfer them to somebody else?

Mr. Douglas said the action of the recent convention showed that the Democrats of Indiana could not be bought.

Mr. Brown wished to press a vote on the resolution, but yielded to a motion to postpone, and after an executive session the Senate adjourned.

"The Union."

We'd like to intrude upon the sanctity of a belief which fascinates its devotees almost to fanaticism; but when we see an exhibition of pious hypocrisy in the expression of such intense regard for the welfare of the Union, as to assume that sentiments of loyalty can proceed from only one section of that Union, we cannot resist the sense of duty to let that assurance down a peg—particularly since it has been said that "hypocrisy is the necessary burden of villainy."

Various Republican journals—intensely northern in their sentiment—have recently re-published some excellent patriotic lines entitled, "The Union," commencing thus:

The hand that flowed at Lexington, and crimson'd bright Champlain,
Stretches still along the Southern Gulf and by the last of Maine;
It flows in veins that swell above Pacific's golden sand,
And throbs in hearts that love and grieve by dark Ontario's strand.

In connection with this, these journals always publish the name of the National Era Poet, J. G. Whittier, as its author. We dislike to spoil this fantasy, but really we must insist that the devil shall have his due. That intensely patriotic song, freighted with expressions of such true regard for the Union, and teeming with such masterly rebuke to the very class of men and politicians to which John G. Whittier belongs, was written about twelve years ago, by a Southern fire-eater, one Jesse E. Cairn, then editor of the Vicksburg (Miss.) Whig, and first published in that paper. Published too, in a land where, according to these Northern fanatics—who thus "steal the livery of Heaven to serve the devil in"—every spark of nationality is extinct; where freedom is throttled, and humanity weeps for very shame at barbarities openly practised; and where disloyalty to the Union is the only safe-guard to citizenship. Yet our neighbor, the Press and Tribune, glories in this intensely southern sentiment. We fear it will have to recant its belief in the safety of sentiments emanating from a latitude so dangerous, or lose the proud title it holds as chief among the nigger worshipers.—Chicago Herald.

☞We learn that several farmers in the northern portion of the county have sold their crops of tobacco to buyers on Green river—some at $5 round, and some as high as $6 50 for good and lugs, with trash thrown in. The present crop of tobacco, at these rates, will go far to relieve the county of its present indebtedness.—Madisonville (Ky.) Register.

UNFORTUNATE.—Our friend and fellow citizen, James A. Miller, who so recently met with a heavy loss in hogs by the cholera, is again, it is feared a sufferer, by the sinking of the steamer A. O Tyler, on board of which he had shipped 475 barrels of Bourbon whisky, upon which, it is thought, he had no insurance.—Paris Flag.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

An act to repeal an act prohibiting the importation of slaves into this Commonwealth.

Mr. READ being entitled to the floor, said, that feeling much indisposed this morning, yet not wishing to detain the Senate longer on this bill, he would endeavor to say all he had to say upon the question to-day. Two years ago he had the honor to introduce a bill similar to the one under consideration, which passed the Senate, but passed into the orders of the day in the House, and was never reached. He regretted to differ with the Senator from Union, being of the same political faith. He does not differ with the Senator in his reading of the Constitution of the State. If he been a member of the Convention that framed the Constitution, he would have voted against that prohibitory clause. If the institution of slavery is right, then, in God's name, don't letter it—if it is wrong, then it should not exist at all. He believes the institution is right—of divine origin. The law which he desires to repeal debarred the masses from purchasing servants, but benefited a favored few. He was opposed to all such enactments. The speech of the Senator from Union did not represent the feelings of the people he represents on the Senate floor. The two parties who oppose the repeal of the law of 1833, are those who wish to monopolize slave property in Kentucky, and those who desire to emancipate the slaves. The Senator proceeded upon the idea, yesterday, that the commercial interests of the State did not demand the augmentation of slave property—that the commerce of Kentucky did not need the increase of slave property that would result from the repeal of this law. In 1832 the Virginia Legislature acted upon the question in such a manner, that the Kentucky Legislature, of the year following, (1833, having caught the idea, passed the law we are now trying to repeal.

Mr. READ read extracts from the speeches delivered in the Virginia Legislature, in 1832, by Messrs. Barry, Bolling, Lee, and others. He thought that Washington, Jefferson, and all those old fathers of the republic, were mistaken in their idea of the effect of slavery upon the commercial interests of the country. He revered the memory of Washington, Madison, and Jefferson; but their opinions were correct on that day, are not so certainly now. He then read from the Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, to show that the Southern States exported vastly more produce to foreign ports than the northern States. The Southern States proceed far beyond the North. The institution of slavery, instead of proving a blighting curse, had been, and always, a positive blessing. He held to this: the Senator desires to cripple or emancipate the institution in Kentucky; but the course he had pointed out for Kentucky to pursue would have that effect.

The burden of the Senator's remarks was, that the repeal of this law would introduce into the State a class of slaves that would vitiate the property we already hold. He was entirely mistaken—it would have no such effect. Mr. Read was for throwing the doors wide open. If it is right for one man to own slaves, it is right for all to own them. The monopoly of slave property is the surest means of breaking down and eradicating slavery. He believes in the Jacksonian policy: "Equal and exact justice to all, exclusive privileges to none." No other doctrine should be tolerated in this country. He then read a resolution offered in the lower house of Congress, in 1842, (inimical to slave property in the District of Columbia,) by Mr. Slade, of Vermont, signed also by the Senator from Tennessee, Mr. Andrews, then a member of Congress, voted for it. The Senator not satisfy the position taken, by opposing this bill to repeal a pernicious law of 1833, but to stand behind Reed, in the effort to wipe it out from the statute books. He then referred to the peculiar ascendency of the slave—the curse pronounced upon Ham by his father, Noah. He also referred to other Scriptural passages recognizing the relation between master and slave. He has no connections of commerce upon the moral and religious aspects of slavery—he believes in this divine origin of slavery.

The Senator was cut off by the arrival of the hour for adjournment.

Were it not that we were unable to give as perfect an abstract of the Senator's remarks as we could wish. He is exceedingly lucid, and delivered, and listened to with profound attention.

The Senate then adjourned until 7 o'clock, P. M.

MOTHERS

IN presenting you with DR. EATON'S INFANTILE CORDIAL, we desire to state its superiority over every nostrum that nurse or quack has heretofore excelled us.

First—It is the preparation of a regular physician, who is well qualified from much experience in infantile complaints to prescribe for them. Secondly—It contains no paregoric or opiate of any kind, and consequently relieves by removing the suffering, not exhibiting, instead of deadening its sensibilities. Thirdly—It is put up with great care, as a compound of it with any other article for infantile complaints will show; the very roots from which it is distilled being dug from the forests under the direction of Dr. Eaton, some of them by his own hands. Fourthly—It is perfectly harmless, and cannot injure the most delicate infant, and is a certain cure and relief in all the following cases, which is its chief merit over every other preparation, viz:

FOR ALL COMPLAINTS ATTENDING TEETHING, such as DYSENTERY COLIC, &c; also, for Scalding the gums and relieving pain. For regulating the bowels it is unequaled. For Cold in the Head it is a sure relief. For CROUP, the most fatal and trying of diseases, it can be relied on with perfect confidence; and being a powerful anti spasmodic in all cases of convulsions for fits, we earnestly recommend it to be nothing in preparing it. Lastly—It costs much more than other preparations of the kind that we cannot afford such long advertisements as on these we whose expense is their advertising for the same reason, it commends itself as the most reliable to all mothers. In all cases, the directions wrapped around each bottle, must be strictly followed. Price, 25 cents per bottle.

Dr. Bronson, having been so far relieved by consumption, as to be considered beyond all hope of recovery by the most eminent of the medical profession, and also by himself—a regular physician of twenty years practice—as a last resort, conceived the idea of ANALYZING THE BLOOD, and applying the subject of physiology to the most immediate connection, and effect of the state of the blood upon the health and system. The result has been the production of this "BLOOD FOOD," from the use of which Dr. Bronson was restored to perfect health. Within six months after its introduction, over two thousand consumptives were effectually cured by it. If you have any complaints of consumptive tendency—Cough, Cold, Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of appetite or pain in the side, lose no time in procuring a bottle of the "BLOOD FOOD." If you are suffering from Nervous Debility, or your sleep is broken and disturbed, if your Spirits are Depressed or your Organs relaxed, you will find in this or no other remedy, be encouraging with ten drops. If your Liver is torpid or diseased in any manner whatever, one entire bottle will be sure to invigorate, and bring it positively and healthful action. In the most inveterate cases of Dyspepsia the patient can here find the most efficient and grateful relief. A benefit is always experienced after taking only one bottle. In Female Complaints and Broken-downness, the sufferer, after trying other remedies in vain, may rest assured, that a certain cure will result from the use of ten or three bottles. The "BLOOD FOOD" is effectual in all cases of Eruptions, Salt Rheum, Scrofulas and other like complaints. Pale and sickly children and adults are immediately benefited by its use. It gives strength to the body and color and beauty to the skin. Physicians of all schools are using it with wonderful success.

For full directions, see circulars. Price $1 per bottle.

CATHARTIC PILLS.

The FAMILY CATHARTIC PILL is a gentle but active Cathartic, which the proprietor has used in his practice more than twenty years.

The constantly increasing demand from those who have long used the PILLS, and the satisfaction which all express in regard to their use, has induced me to place them within the reach of all.

The Profession well know that different Cathartics act on different portions of the bowels.

The FAMILY CATHARTIC PILL has, with due reference to this well established fact, been compounded from a variety of the purest Vegetable Extracts, which act alike on every part of the alimentary canal, and are good and safe in all cases where a Cathartic is needed, such as Derangements of the Stomach, Sleeplessness, Pains in the Back and Loins, Costiveness, Pain and Soreness over the whole body, from sudden cold, which frequently, if neglected, end in a long course of Fever, Loss of Appetite, a creeping sensation of cold over the body, Restlessness, Headache, or weight in the head, all inflammatory Diseases, Worms in Children or Adults, in fact, as a great purifier of the Blood and many diseases to which flesh is heir, too numerous to mention in this advertisement. LAW SCHOOL

OF HARVARD COLLEGE.

The Instructors in this School are:

HON. JOEL PARKER, LL. D., Royal Professor.

HON. THEOPHILUS PARSONS, LL. D., Dane Professor.

HON. EMORY WASHBURN, LL. D., University Professor.

THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION embraces the various branches of the Common Law; and of Equity, Admiralty, Commercial, International, and Constitutional Law, and the Jurisprudence of the United States. The Law Library consists of about 15,000 volumes, and as new works appear they are added, and every effort is made to render it complete.

Instruction is given by oral lectures and expositions, and by recitations and examinations in connection with the text, of which there are ten every week. A Moot Court is holden in each week, at which a cause previously given out is argued by four students, and an opinion delivered by the Presiding Instructor. Room and other facilities are provided for Club Courts; and an Assembly is held weekly, for practice in debate, and for acquiring a knowledge of parliamentary law and proceedings.

Students may enter the School in any stage of their professional studies or mercantile pursuits, and at the commencement of either term, or in the middle or other part of the term.

They are at liberty to elect what studies they will pursue, according to their view of their own wants and attainments.

The academical year, which commences on Thursday, six weeks after the third Wednesday in July, is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each, with a vacation of six weeks at the end of each term.

During the winter vacation the Library is opened, warmed, and lighted, for the use of the members of the School.

The Exercises of the Spring Term will commence on MONDAY, March 5th; those of the Autumn Term, on MONDAY, September 3d, 1860.

Applications for admission, or for catalogues, or any further information, may be made to either of the Professors at Cambridge.
